

Plant Traits, Functional Diversity, and Ecosystem Services

The figure shows the relationship between the dry matter content of leaves, and the rate of decomposition of those leaves measured as the proportion of the original mass of the leaf litter which has been decomposed (i.e. “lost”) over a fixed time period.

